Topic: Medical School Experience, modeled on the Mini Medical School program, is an introduction to how medical students become physicians as well as an orientation to anatomy, physical examination and diagnosis, physiology and pathophysiology and pharmacology for participants. The symposium offers participants the opportunity to learn the subjects important to medical students and to understand how students progress through medical school, moving from their preclinical to clinical years. This symposium is designed to help librarians better understand their physician patrons, by focusing on what are some of the elements of their training.

Instructors: Reena Karani, MD, Assistant Professor and Medical Director, Geriatrics Consultation and Liaison Service, Brookdale Department of Geriatrics and Adult Development, Mt. Sinai School of Medicine, New York, NY

This HSLANJ continuing education program was last offered at the Medical Library Association Conference in May 2004. Read these comments from some of your colleagues who attended this program. Don't miss out on this opportunity to attend a high-quality course at low HSLANJ pricing!

Attending this course was a real eye opener for me. I thought I knew how a "regular person" became a "doctor", but I really didn't understand how "The Match" worked, or many of the other bureaucratic hoops people must jump through on their way to becoming a doctor. Even after ten years as a librarian, I still learned things in the pharmacology and the diagnosis lectures that help me better understand some of the things my patrons are looking for. Whether you are new to the field, or a seasoned veteran, you cannot walk away from this course without having learned something valuable. Don't miss it! - Robb Mackes, Union Hospital

[My colleague] and I took this CE at MLA this year and we both thought it was great! We paid well over $200 so $100 for HSLANJ is a bargain. I think that probably at least one person from our institution would attend, possibly 2. There is a lot to learn for everyone in the course from my point of view. I have been working in medical school or med school affiliated libraries since 1976 and still felt it was very worthwhile. - Nancy Calabretta, Cooper University Hospital
